

Mestrado em Food Design
Master's in Food Design
2023/2024

Enrollment Information

Candidates are hereby informed that the deadline for enrolling will run from May 29 to June 2, 2023. Failure to enroll within the aforementioned period, or failure to pay the vacancy reservation, implies the loss of the right to admission to the course.

Only students with a degree qualification certificate will be able to enroll and must commit to presenting the original version by October 14, 2023. The rest must pay a reservation fee. Failure to deliver the degree certificate by October 15, 2023, or any other missing document, implies the cancellation of enrollment without the right to refund the amounts already charged.

It is further informed that the payment of the fee is subject to the following terms set out in Order No. 145/PRES/ESHTE/2022:

- Candidates who, at the time of application, meet the conditions for admission to Master's courses (holders of an undergraduate degree), enroll in the corresponding enrollment phase without having to pay any vacancy reservation fee (this fee applies exclusively to applicants who are not yet holders of an undergraduate degree);
- Candidates conditionally admitted to the master's courses, if they wish to secure the respective place, pay a fee to reserve a place, which corresponds to the value of the first two installments of the corresponding master's course tuition fee;
- The vacancy reservation fee provided for in the previous number is non-refundable,
- Candidates who are conditionally admitted to the master's courses and submit a certificate of completion of the undergraduate degree course to the ESHTE Academic Services by October 15, 2023, may continue their enrollment in the master's courses, with the obligation to pay the total tuition fee due for attending the corresponding master's course.
